

Dear:_____

I am writing to request an exemption from the [Company name] policy requiring mandatory COVID mRNA injections pursuant to Title VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964 and any other applicable state law.

The basis of this request is that as an active and practicing Roman Catholic as well as someone who sincerely opposes the practice of abortion and involuntary/forced medical treatment, I cannot in good conscience participate or materially cooperate from a moral standpoint in any way with this new policy.

It is undisputed that all COVID "vaccines" currently on the market either were directly manufactured or tested using aborted baby fetal cell lines. Nor can it be ignored that VAERS data demonstrates reports of serious injuries and death resulting from these medications, that those who receive the injections can still get COVID, and that those who get the injection can still spread COVID.

While the company may choose to put its employees' health at risk and subject itself to potential legal liability for "vaccine" injuries, I simply cannot morally justify participating or cooperating in any way with a policy designed to inject as many people as possible with these mRNA medications.

Because I cannot in good conscience comply with this policy, I am proposing as a reasonable accommodation... [propose a suggested accommodation based on what makes sense for your job such as working remotely, social distancing from others in an office, or some other "accommodation" tailored to your particular job that you are comfortable with.]

Please see the attached letter from _____, which I am including as part of my request. Thank you for your understanding and consideration.

Sincerely,

X _____ (Employee)
